

REACH Compliance Statement

LEM Group is fully aware of the requirements of REACH, the European Regulation (EC) 1907/2006 concerning Registration, Evaluation, Authorization and Restriction of Chemicals, which entered into force on 1 June 2007 and which specifies duties and obligations for companies in the European Union that manufacture or import substances on their own, in preparations or in articles .

LEM is identified as a downstream user under the REACH definitions and therefore we are not required to pre-register or register the products we supply to you. We do not manufacture or supply "substances" or "preparations" and our articles are not concerned by "intentional release of substances" during their normal use.

We believe that even though REACH is an EU regulation, LEM products are affected all around the world. Therefore LEM has decided to deploy the REACH requirements on a worldwide basis.

LEM products follow relevant requirements of the REACH regulation and LEM is eager to provide relevant information to its customers in any demand.

In accordance with the REACH directives, LEM has strengthened communications along the supply chain. Suppliers of articles and materials are required to deliver REACH compliant items to LEM and its subcontractors.

LEM assures that its products do not contain any Substance of Very High Concern (SVHC) from the REACH candidate list updated by ECHA on January 15th, 2018.

Questions regarding the application of the REACH regulation at LEM can be addressed to your usual sales contact or to reach@lem.com .

Geneva, January 30, 2018

A blue ink signature of Simon Siggen, consisting of a large, stylized 'S' followed by several loops and a horizontal line at the bottom.

Simon Siggen
VP Operations

A blue ink signature of Francois GABELLA, featuring a large, stylized 'F' and 'G' with several loops and a vertical line extending downwards.

Francois GABELLA
CEO

Disclaimer:

The information above is accurate to the best of our current knowledge and is based on declarations of compliance of our suppliers